ABOUT THE BAND

The music of Zero Point Five is a combination of pop, folk and country, with their songs reminiscing of acts like Mumford & Sons and Zac Brown Band.

The project which started as a high school folk duo in 2009 evolved into one of Luxembourg's most popular and authentic live powerhouses, playing festivals all over the Grand Duchy and being one of the most air played bands on national radio and television.

As a duo, trio or 6-piece-band, they know how to use their banjos, mandolins, fiddles and guitars to make the crowd dance. Their smoky-smooth voices and danceable tunes will take every audience on a ride through the universe of folk-american inspired pop music.

In 2019, after the release of their second album "Southern Breeze", the band is hitting the road all over Europe to present its tried and tested concept, all while innovating the very basic of their musical genre. For 2021, the band is not only planning a US Tour, but also the release of new music and a series of videoclips.

Between the Grand Duchy and Honolulu, between Tennessee vibes and European summer, ZERO POINT FIVE give any place on earth its soundtrack.
