

Jackie Moontan

Jackie Moontan is a moon man, or so he claims.

Other claims include that he crash landed his spaceship into a Mississippi swamp in the mid 70's, that he was partially blinded by seeing Elvis perform in a glitzy rhinestone suit in Las Vegas and that he taught Jame Brown how to do the funky chicken, the last claim being highly questionable.

What's an actual fact however is that he fell in love with this strange blue planet and its strange blue inhabitants, and that he's been traveling the world over writing songs about his encounters.

Jackie is known for his love of everything kitsch and for wearing satin shirts and bright coloured suits on stage during his 'Spectacular One Man Moon Man Karaoke Show Extraordinaire' - as he calls it. Whatever he does on stage, whether it be entering a baptist church pastor like trance, howling, dancing or actually falling off stage.. you never really know what you're gonna get if you're going to one of his shows.

In his songs Jackie reveals himself to be both a discreet observer and a fabulous crooner, who tenderly relates his sometimes absurd and sometimes touching tales in a colourful combination of pop, funk and soul music that is very much his own.